

Male cleaners in men's toilet, please

Letter from M Lukshumayeh

INCREASINGLY, in commercial buildings, one sees ladies being assigned to clean male toilets, including in office buildings such as The Strategy, located in the International Business Park.

I like to believe that no male toilet cleaner goes into the ladies toilet as the ladies use the toilet facilities. On a similar basis, it would only be appropriate not to have female cleaners inside the male toilets, particularly when there are men inside.

I hope that the relevant authorities would look into this matter not only to save embarrassing moments for the toilet users and cleaners but also before any untoward incident takes place. While there should be no compromise in having clean toilets, surely, deploying suitable staff to clean the respective toilets must be given its due consideration.
