

Women deserve more washrooms

PUBLIC washrooms are a key answer in our quest for gracious living and cleanliness. So I find it odd that one obvious aspect about public washrooms, which will help alleviate the problem of unsanitary and unsightly toilets, has not been addressed. That is, insufficient toilets for women and girls.

Check out any mall, club or cinema, and you will find that women and girls have to queue to use the loo. The length of the queue can be quite astonishing, in contrast to male washrooms. As a man, I must say women have my sympathy.

The problem can be addressed easily. Build more women's loos – perhaps two for every male washroom. If that is impractical, build larger loos for the ladies.
