

"The solution: family public toilets or more handicap toilets not located inside men's or women's toilets."

MADAM YVONNE CHUNG: "I have a six-year-old son who, until recently, always followed me to the women's public toilet. Since he turned six, he has gone to the men's toilet by himself. However, I find it unsafe for him to go by himself. As for my three-year-old daughter, when my husband is out with the kids by himself, he has to take her to the men's toilet. What about when there are men using the urinals? We get her to close her eyes now."