

June 3, 2007

Loo woes: Use number locks

TO PREVENT toilets meant for the disabled at shopping centres and MRT stations from being misused by able-bodied people, I would like to suggest that a number lock be installed.

Only disabled users can approach the cleaners to gain access to these toilets.

In the absence of any cleaner, the information or security counter could help the disabled user gain entry.

The lock's number combination can be changed any time, if it is found that able-bodied people had used the toilets not meant for them.

Bennie Cheok