On the cleanliness of foodcourt toilets:

“There’s only so much that can be done with a “redesign”. If the people lack civic pride and are inconsiderate of other users, what’s to be done? The Government can’t send in cleaners after each and every user.”

“In some European countries you have to pay a small amount to use the toilet. This generates the salary for a dedicated cleaner as well as keeps people on their best behaviour as the cleaner walks in to clean up after you.”
