

BANANA AND PEACH SURPRISE

A pizza restaurant in China has confused customers by using banana and peach signs on the gents and ladies toilet doors, Ananova.com reported.

The fruity markings, in the central city of Zhengzhou, were spotted by officials conducting research on the city's public signs. They concluded that more than 60 per cent were unclear.

Researchers said during the 10 minutes they stood outside the toilets, all 12 customers who needed to use the washroom got confused. One male customer said: "We were not sure which one stands for men. Does the banana represent a slim woman?"

Other strange toilets signs were discovered, including ones that used pictures of a waterfall on the gents toilet door and rain on the ladies.