CLEAN All you need to do to be part of the first Global Handwashing Day on Oct 15 is to soap up.

Organised by agencies from the public and private sectors, the event aims to prevent diarrhoea and acute respiratory infections by fostering a habit of regular handwashing.

In Singapore, body wash brand Lifebuoy is partnering the World Toilet Organisation and Restroom Association (Singapore) and 50 schools to mark Global Handwashing Day.

Lifebuoy Handwash samples will be delivered to schools and posters will be put up in toilets and canteens to raise awareness of this simple hygiene habit that can save lives.
