Bus driver not allowed to use hotel's toilet

MY DAD, who is a private bus driver, encountered a most absurd incident on Thursday at about 8.30am.

After he drove some tourists to The Regent Singapore, he went into the hotel to use the toilet.

One of the female employees went in and chased him out, saying that because he was a bus driver, he could not use the facility.

According to him, there was no indication as to who could or could not use the toilet. The hotel should make it clear if there is such a restriction.
