

Simply not the done thing in restrooms

RECENTLY, I visited the washroom on the first level at West Mall shopping centre. The male and female washrooms were situated next to each other.

There was heavy human traffic due to the early evening rush and both the washrooms were fully utilised. Imagine my horror when I entered to see a father with his son and daughter in the male washroom. The family spoke well and the girl looked around seven years of age.

I could not comprehend his action and his nonchalant manner was shocking.

The little girl was old enough to use the female washroom on her own.
