

PUBLIC TOILETS NEED IMPROVEMENT

I REFER to the report, "Toiletman to the rescue!" (my paper, Dec 9), on World Toilet Organisation founder Jack Sim.

The condition of public toilets at coffee shops and hawker centres leaves much to be desired.

Floors are often wet and dirty. The toilets are not well-ventilated and smell foul. Wash basins are slimy. There is no soap and no toilet rolls in dispensers.

This is a perennial problem. Mr Sim should work with various organisations, including the National Environment Agency, to see how he can improve toilet conditions for the benefit of the public.
